So many questions remain: Swede and Caroline had 11 children, where are the others not listed on the 1880 census? We know research done by the Lockharts show 14 children for Tom and Nora, even though all are not listed on the 1880 census.

I have determined family trees are sort of like puzzles; there are many pieces, different people hold different parts, nobody thinks their piece is important or noteworthy. I challenge our family to share the knowledge so that our tree is complete. How awesome would that be?
